Forecast For Southwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Sunday 05 Dec 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Drier and sunnier than yesterday with winds slowly easing. Chilly.

Today:
Scattered showers during the morning, these mainly across Devon and Cornwall, but becoming increasingly isolated by lunchtime. Otherwise, most places will be dry with sunny spells, most prolonged during the afternoon. Brisk winds will again bring a noticeable wind-chill. Maximum temperature 9 deg C (48 deg F).

Tonight:
Dry with clear periods this evening, with some frost developing in the east and a few fog patches. Temperatures recovering later as cloud, wind and rain arrives in the west. Minimum temperature 0 deg C (32 deg F).

Monday:
Cloudy with occasionally heavy rain spreading east during the morning. Brighter skies with sunny spells and showers quickly following from the west. Becoming windy, especially near coasts in the west. Maximum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:
Very windy with gales or severe gales likely on Tuesday and further heavy rain followed by showers. Staying unsettled and cold on Wednesday and Thursday with strong winds and showers.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.